Fellow Voters,

As President of the California Contract Cities Association (CCCA), it is my honor to report that on Wednesday, August 20th, the California Contract Cities Association unanimously voted to endorse Chief Jim McDonnell for Sheriff of Los Angeles County.

For 57 years, the CCCA has represented cities that contract their critical services with counties, including the County of Los Angeles. Our organization represents over seven million people across the State of California.

The CCCA puts great thought into whom we endorse. Our member cities rely heavily on the services and support of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department (LASD); LASD is the primary provider of law enforcement service to 42 contract cities. Our Board of Directors, comprised of Mayors and Councilmembers from across the county, knows that Chief Jim McDonnell is the right person to lead the Sheriff's Department—our police department—forward.

I am writing not simply in my capacity as the leader of CCCA, but also as a career social worker, educator and City Councilmember in Artesia, California. Artesia is one of the many cities that contracts with the Sheriff's Department for public safety support and I know first-hand how important the upcoming election is for our communities. We must restore trust in the Sheriff's Department's ability to partner with the community and work with city government to keep our communities safe.

Thank you for joining me and so many other community leaders, advocates for police reform and law enforcement organizations from across the political spectrum in supporting Chief McDonnell for Sheriff. Together, we will ensure that the people of Los Angeles County have a Sheriff's Department they can trust and be proud of.

Sincerely,
Victor Manalo
President, California Contract Cities Association
Councilmember, City of Artesia
