

Councilmember Carrizosa Refuses to Answer Questions About False and Misleading Statements

By Brian Hews

Councilwoman Cristina Carrizosa is against Measure Y and has been exposed by Hews Media Group-Community News as the likely leader of a shadowy organization fighting the Measure, placing No on Measure Y banners throughout the city as well as distributing negative flyers to Pomona residents.

Cristina Carrizosa

Questions surround Carrizosa's covert actions, as the Measure would not cost the City any money, give the City $500,000 upfront, and give the City $250,000 per

Cal Poly Headed for College World Series

Just a base hit was all that was needed to keep Cal Poly Pomona in the ballgame, but CPP's Jacob Bernardy did not stop there. Bernardy hit the first homerun of his career out of Totman Stadium and with it came four RBI. His grand slam put the Broncos on top 7-6, a lead that the CPP team would hold as it clinched its second-consecutive NCAA West Region Title and trip to Cary, N.C.

Staff Report

The Broncos are going to the College World Series starting May 28, 2016.

As they take the trip to Cary, N.C., for the NCAA Division II Championship Series, the Broncos will first play the Midwest Region champion Southern Indiana.

The Broncos' contest with USI is set for 4 p. m. Pacific (7 p. m.

All of CPP's World Series games will be aired at the Bronco Student Center and on campus cable channel 32.

Carrizosa and Lantz Vote Against Helping Homeless in City

By Brian Hews

In what only can be described as vindictive and mean spirited, two Pomona Councilwomen voted no this past May 16 to approve temporary shelters for the homeless population in the city of Pomona as per Senate Bill 2 which was passed in 2007.

Councilwomen Cristina Carrizosa and Paula Lantz surprised everyone with their no votes when the issue came to a vote, with the remaining five councilmembers voting yes.

To designate an area in the City suitable for a homeless shelter costs the City nothing, while placing the City in compliance with SB 2, so there was no apparent reason for the two Councilwomen to vote no on the issue.

Even more baffling, during the May 2, 2016 meeting, Carrizosa seconded the first motion to approve the shelters, which passed by a 5-0 vote, with Lantz and Nolte not present.

Carrizosa even insincerely proclaimed, "once again District 3 is bearing the load to solve the city's problems. We in District 3 are up for the challenge!"

Former President Clinton Visited Pomona to Campaign for His Wife

By Brian Hews

This past Saturday, former President Bill Clinton campaigned for his wife Hillary Clinton in Pomona at Ganesha High School.

The former president was interrupted by protesters with megaphones, who began shouting and chanting in the middle of his speech.

As the protesters shouted, security escorted them out of the event, Clinton, in his own way paused and smiled, appearing unruffled.

"This is not a Donald Trump rally," he said, to big cheers from supporters. "We welcome dissenters and protesters here. This is America."

Clinton was introduced by LA County Supervisor Hilda Solis, the former congresswoman who also served in the Obama Cabinet as U. S. Labor Secretary at the same time Hillary Clinton served as Secretary of State.

The former president told the crowd of 300-400 of a request Hillary made to Obama that the White House become more social.

Quoting his wife Clinton said, "I want you to give me two or three of those tech wizards you used to beat me in the primary. And let me put them in the State Department so we can put America onto social media."

"She was the first major figure to say we are crazy to demonize Muslims. We need Muslims who love freedom and hate terror in America to help us win the battle."

Clinton finished by saying, "there are more issues that unite us than divide us we must unify the party and beat The Donald."

The Donald reference elicited a huge response from the crowd.

POMONA WOMAN TRAPPED IN CHIMNEY FOR FIVE HOURS

A Pomona woman found herself in a jam Friday after trying to enter her locked Pomona house through the chimney. Firefighters were called at 12:12 p.m. the 2200 block of Carlton Avenue. The chimney had to be taken apart so the woman, who suffered minor injuries, could be freed and taken to a hospital, the house. Neighbors called the police when they heard the screams for help. "I called the police and they came, and they broke the chimney," neighbor Jose Rodriguez said. Rodriguez said he was in his front yard with his daughter when he heard the chimney brick by brick to get the woman out. LA County Fire said the young woman was trapped in the chimney for five hours. Jose Juarez saw the woman moments after rescuers pulled her from the rubble. She was coming out with a lot of black stuff, like soot," Juarez said. The woman was taken to a nearby hospital and treated with minor injuries. The rescue took less than an hour, according to the fire department. "She was very lucky," said one fireman at the scene, "she could have been seriously injured." She returned home on Friday night.

MARIACHI LOS BRONCOS DE POMONA CONCERT

From Pomona Proud

Mariachi Los Broncos de Pomona, one of Cal Poly Pomona's newest ensembles, will make their evening concert debut on Tuesday, May 31, 2016 at the Music Recital Hall. Los Broncos' Spring 2016 concert marks a momentous occasion for the Cal Poly Pomona community, as it will celebrate the revival of the Music Department's mariachi program. Mariachi ensembles in college programs began during the 1960s at a time when the Chicano Civil Rights Movement and the Bilingual Education Act (1968) helped motivate changes in diversity on college campuses and encourage students to take pride in cultural expressions. Southern California has served as a historically significant place for the development of both the Chicano Movement and academic mariachi programs. Throughout the late twentieth century, Cal Poly Pomona offered a mariachi ensemble that was part of this legacy; however, the original CPP mariachi ensemble dissolved after the early 2000s. Now under the direction of Dr. Jessie M. Vallejo, Mariachi Los Broncos consists of students from diverse backgrounds and majors, including music, business administration, engineering, kinesiology, and psychology. In the ensemble's two quarters, they have already enjoyed the opportunity of working with Jesús Guzmán, the Grammy Award-winning musical director of Mariachi Los Camperos de Nati Cano. Los Broncos' initial university-hour noon concert in Winter 2016 was sold out and the group has continued to receive positive receptions following additional on-campus performances. Mariachi Los Broncos de Pomona invites you to join them for their evening concert debut. Mariachi Los Broncos de Pomona Tuesday, May 31, 2016 at 8:00pm Music Recital Hall #24-191, 3801 West Temple Avenue, Pomona, CA 91768 Tickets $10 – Box Office #24-188 – 12-1:00pm weekdays, at the event, or online at csupomona.tix.com. Restaurant Review

Taqueria Santa Cruz

This week’s restaurant is a taqueria located in the corner of the shopping center at the southwest corner of Garey and Grand. It is literally “in the corner” of the center. It is very unassuming and hidden, but I was able to find it fairly quickly.

So I took a seat at one of the tables and was quickly provided with a menu. All menu items also appear on a board behind the cash register. The dining room had a television showing a telenovela, with the volume up so it could be heard (if not understood by me—I pretty much could follow the action though).

After studying the menu, and there were a number of good sounding dishes including burritos, sopas, tostadas, and others such as huevos al gusto, birria de chivo, and fajitas, as well as seafood options.

I chose one of my standbys (sorry, not feeling particularly adventuresome that day) and ordered the chili relleno platillo.

It came with a chili relleno drenched in a red tomato sauce, refried beans, and rice, as well as corn tortillas. I also ordered a diet Coke, although there were aguas frescas available as well as a number of bottled soft drinks including Mexican Coke.

My meal was delivered to my table in a fairly short period of time. This was an interesting version of a chili relleno. First the cheese in the filling was a little bit tough, not melty and smooth, but it had a “bite” to it, not awful, but not what I expected.

The sauce actually tasted like someone poured a jar of marinara sauce on top and added some lightly grilled onions and bell peppers. It had that sweet tomato style taste more than the flavor that I would associate with a tomatillo sauce on a chili relleno.

The rice was cooked perfectly and tasted good, although nothing special. The beans on the other hand had a “fishy” taste to them. I’m not sure if they were warmed up in a pan that had been used to cook fish but it was definitely a different flavor profile for refried beans.

I wanted a little salsa for my rice, and looked around and the waitress noticed and asked what I needed. She then brought me two squeeze bottles one with a red sauce and the other with a green sauce. This worked out fine. While I was there, there were only two others who came in.

One single person ordered take-out and one other single diner at in. At the end of my meal, no one came to the table with the check so I approached the cash register. I started to pay with my debit card (who carries cash these days) but the waitress informed me that if I used a card it would cost an additional dollar.

I checked my wallet and, wonder of wonders, I actually had a $20 in there. I paid and added the dollar that I would have used to pay a card fee, along with some other change, and dropped it in the tip jar. To be honest, if they had taken the card the tip would have been larger. Although I cleared my plate, mom would have been proud, it was not a place that I was impressed with and I doubt I’ll be back.

They have 4.5 stars on Yelp so I really must have missed something. I always accept that I might not have chosen the right food at an unknown restaurant. Your mileage may vary. Next week I’ll be moving from the south Pomona portion of Garey to the downtown portion. Let’s see if things change.

ASSEMBLYMEMBER RODRIGUEZ HONORS HEROIC EMERGENCY MEDICAL PROVIDERS

Assemblymember Freddie Rodriguez honored a group of heroic Emergency Medical Providers during a special ceremony on the Assembly Floor this past week.

Staff Report

In celebration of Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Week which takes place this year from May 15th – May 21st, Assemblymember Freddie Rodriguez (D-Pomona) is hosting a free CPR training course in partnership with American Medical Response and Montclair Police Department Saturday. Students will receive hands-on training and certification good for 2 years upon completion.

“The time it takes to learn CPR is nothing compared to the reward a person can feel when they save someone’s life,” said Rodriguez. “Fewer than 3 percent of Americans take a CPR class each year. I want to do my part to increase that number.”

Assemblymember Rodriguez has been an emergency medical technician in the San Gabriel Valley for over 30 years. Even while serving in the State Legislature, he still works shift on an ambulance when his schedule allows.

Rodriguez’ background in emergency medical services led him to introduce legislation to require CPR training in high school. Assembly Bill 1719 will ensure California’s high school students learn this critical skill, empowering them to act when an emergency arises. Similar legislation has been passed in 31 other states. The bill is set to be heard in the Assembly Appropriations Committee on May 27th.

“California is falling behind the rest of the nation,” said Rodriguez. “Including CPR instruction in high school is a common sense approach to ensuring our students are equipped with basic life skills. I urge my colleagues to support my legislation.”

year for a total of $10 million over the life of the agreement.

In addition, major problems exist with the information on the banners and flyers that Carrizosa is endorsing.

One problem is the lack of a disclosure statement informing residents who paid for the banners and flyers, a blatant Fair Political Practices Act violation.

Section 18450.4 of the Act specifically states that disclosures shall include “paid for by” and the word “committee” on the campaign materials. “The disclosures shall be presented in a clear and conspicuous manner to give the reader notice of the identity of the person(s) or committee(s) that paid for the communication.”

The other problem, which could land Carrizosa in legal hot water, is that all of the wording on the campaign materials are outright lies and almost exactly match the two Argument and Rebuttals filed by Carrizosa with the Pomona City Clerk on Mar. 17 and Mar. 28 of this year.

HMG-CN has sent several emails to Carrizosa asking about her forms sent to the City Clerk and the lies contained therein, with no answer.

Carrizosa was also asked if she was involved with the banners and distribution of flyers that match her wording in the forms filed with the City Clerk, again she did not answer.

The lack of communication from Carrizosa is telling given the fact she is covertly supporting an illegal extension of an agreement that expired June 2014.

On Nov 2, 1993 voters approved Proposition L, which banned any new billboards in the City. Because the proposition was approved by voters, any proposal for new billboards must be approved by voters.

No on Measure Y banner mounted on a fence in Pomona. Note that the disclosure statement-the political committee who paid for the banner-is missing. The lack of a disclosure statement violates Fair Political Practices Act rules for disclosure. The banner also misleads readers about billboard spacing in California. Billboards are required to be 1,500 feet apart.

Another outdoor advertising company was the recipient of the agreement and erected 10 billboards while removing 30 “eyesore” billboards.

The agreement expired in June 2014, ordering the company to remove the billboards, but the company has been in “negotiations” with the City to extend the agreement; an agreement that Proposition L prohibits.

An agreement that Carrizosa is fighting to get approved that will bring the City only $1 million, while Measure Y will bring the City $10 million.

Everyone is asking why; why the hypocrisy of accepting a 1 million agreement as opposed to a $10 million agreement.

Measure Y is on the upcoming June 7 ballot and is a contract with a sign developer, Bulletin Displays, which Pomona voters will get to approve or reject. The contract allows up to 10 aesthetically beautiful message centers on the four freeways in the City of Pomona.

The developer will pay for the entire cost to build and operate the message centers in addition to paying all taxes and permit fees.

8,700 residents signed a petition supporting Measure Y to get it onto the June 7 ballot.

Most of the local charities and businesses, the Pomona Police Officer Association, the Pomona School of Arts and Enterprise, the Boys and Girls Club, Local Teamsters, along with 8,700 residents have endorsed Measure Y, but Carrizosa is strangely opposing the measure and does not seem to be concerned about the many lies she has put forth in the City.

In an attempt to use scare tactics, Carrizosa claims that there are no content controls in Measure Y. However as HMG-CN and other newspapers, including Nueva Voz have reported recently, Measure Y has extremely tight content controls with severe monetary fines for non-compliance.

Anyone on the City Council can give notice to the developer that the advertising is indecent and must be removed.

Carrizosa is a Councilmember; she has the power to remove indecent copy, but has chosen to mislead voters. The Developer stated that they gave the power to the City to regulate the content of indecent and obscene advertising to prove that they wanted the signs to be an asset to the community.

Carrizosa and company are also claiming that the developer is building “normal” billboards, which is another outright lie.

The developer has submitted several renderings and actually wants to involve the community and students from the School of Arts and Enterprise and other Pomona schools in designing the message centers.

The developer has made it very clear that they want to make the architecture of the sign something that the residents would be proud to showcase as a Pomona landmark.

Undaunted, Carrizosa and company have been posting misleading banners at street corners in Pomona that show only normal billboards.

And she refuses to meet with the developer to talk about the agreement or answer any questions pertaining to the agreement.

Carrizosa recently appeared at the Democratic Club in a question and answer session between her and the developer. The developer spoke first and answered all questions, including questions from Mike Suez, who is also fighting the measure with misleading statements.

Next up was Carrisoza who, along with Suez, held up one of the misleading street banners.

Carrizosa once again spewed her false statements, sat down, and despite numerous requests for questions from the audience, arrogantly said “no questions.”

Long-time resident Vernon Price expressed his dislike towards Carrizosa. “Don’t believe the lies from Cristina. No growth during her tenure as a Council Member. No jobs, no business, no industry, reduced city services, reduced safety services, broken streets, broken down infrastructure. Other cities are thriving, but not Pomona”.

Carrizosa Has History of Questionable Ethics

This is not the first time Carrizosa has twisted facts or circumstances to attain certain goals.

According to a report in the Inland Valley Daily Bulletin in June 2010, in a deal to maximize the benefits of Carrizosa's pensions from the city of Pomona and the Pomona Unified School District, she convinced her colleagues on the Pomona council to let her resign her seat on the council on the same day she retired from the school district.

Two days later, the council appointed her back to her council position.

The purpose of the maneuvering was to allow Carrizosa to maximize her pension and, according to the web site PublicCEO, boost her salary from the city of Pomona.

Carrizosa was now due a much larger pension from her council service after her maneuver.

The article indicated she would receive more than $20,000 per year up from the $2,688 she was due, an increase of 735%.

Carrizosa acknowledged that her pension from the California Public Employees' Retirement System, or CalPERS, will be higher because of her brief retirement.

"It will be a higher amount, but I have no idea what it is," Carrizosa said. "I have not received any response at all. All I know is that they received my application."

The Daily Bulletin contacted an "official," who asked not to be named, who was in a similar position to Carrizosa's upon retiring from a school district.

By retiring from both jobs on the same day, the higher salary of the two jobs will be used by both pension systems even if,

Group-Community News that Carrizosa promised the head of Lionsgate, Ron Williams, that she would vote yes on the issue.

No reason was given for Carrizosa and Lantz's vidictive votes.

Pomona has been in technical violation of SB 2 since 2007 for noncompliance. The bill requires that all cities in California allow "by right" year-round emergency shelters in the city. The requirement is to allow at least one facility that meets the needs of each cities homeless population that is in need of temporary shelter.

In addition, the Senate Bill requires that cities in California treat organizations applying for the housing similar to applications for single-family or multiple family dwelling units.

The property, located at 1390 E. Mission Blvd. is ready to go with Williams only asking the city to waive the $10,000 Planning Division and Building Safety Division fees.

Williams was quoted on his website saying, "The Pomona City Council recently approved 1390 East Mission Blvd. so we may house up to 71 men and women. We plan to begin restoring the buildings on the property once the ordinance is approved and the community development director approves our management and operations plan."

Williams went on, "this is a monumental undertaking and it will require cooperation and support from every facet of government, local churches, residents, business owners, and volunteers for Phase I."

The Mission property also has room to build a gymnasium sized construct to accommodate more homeless persons and provide services to get them off the street and into a stable environment. That will require conditional use permit from the City.

"Our goal," Williams said, "is not to attract more homeless people to Pomona but to accommodate the ones currently living on the city's streets, if they desire help."

Emails into Carrizosa and Lantz asking why they voted no went unanswered.

offense for three runs before a single out was recorded.

Later in the inning, a sacrifice fly and a throwing error by the Broncos' catcher allowed runs No. 4 and No. 5 to score.

In the third inning, CPP answered with a run of its own. Caleb Romo singled through the left side and that allowed for Jared James to make his way home. James had doubled to left field in his at-bat and then moved over on a groundout from Chris Stratton.

The final line on the CPP starter Tyler

Rowe was 3.2 innings pitched, five earned runs allowed on five hits added to a pair each of strikeouts and walks.

He exited the game trailing 5-1 in the bottom of the fourth. Romo reduced the Broncos' deficit in the fifth as he sent homerun No. 10 on the season careening over the left field fence.

His shot pulled the Broncos just three back in the game as they trailed just 5-2.

The homerun was his second of the tournament and increased his RBI tally to 44 on the year.

Replacing Rowe on the bump was Wyatt Shackelford. The sophomore dealt for two innings, scattering four hits and surrendering one run that came on a single to center field with runners at second and third. The Dana Point native also tallied a trio of strikeouts.

The top of the eighth came with the CPP team registering a five-run inning of their own. The first run came as Ryan Webberley hits a sacrifice fly to right field and scored Jason Padlo.

Then, with Michael Zidek, Cody Martin and Nic Hernandez on base, Bernardy cranked his grand slam over the left field fence to put the Green and Gold up 7-6.
