Gambling Props. Not Polling Well With Voters

If you feel like you've been bombarded with advertisements for sports betting legislation over the past several months, you're not alone. According to California Casinos, there has been more than $411 million spent on advertisements between the two groups battling for the rights to the state's betting market. This makes the sports betting initiative the most expensive ballot fight in California history.

What's the difference between Prop 26 and Prop 27? Will either one pass and bring legalized sports betting to California? Here's what you need to know.

What is Prop 26?

Prop 26 would legalize in-person sports betting at the state's tribal casinos as well as California's four horse racing tracks in Arcadia, Los Alamitos, Albany, and Del Mar. This

Cerritos Man Will Stand Trial in Embezzlement Case

By Brian Hews

Cerritos resident and former Industry City Manager Paul Phillips will stand trial for allegedly assisting in a developer's scheme to steal up to $20 million in public funds from a proposed solar farm, a judge ruled Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Paul Phillips

The charges involve $20 million that the City of Industry paid to San Gabriel Valley Water and Power LLC for land leasing and the possible construction of a 450-megawatt solar project that never broke ground and eventually was canceled.

Prosecutors charged company owner William Barkett of La Jolla; Phillips, who was city manager in the city of Bell; attorney Anthony Bouza and Frank Hill

Phillips' Cerritos house was raided in 2020 by the D.A as first reported by HMG-CN.

Phillips and Bouza allegedly helped draft the agreement and handled the funds, which between 2016 and 2018 were routed to an account controlled by Barkett, according to the district attorney's office.

"While some of the money was paid to other vendors, Barkett is accused of spending about $8.3 million on personal items. He also allegedly falsified or altered invoices to inflate the amount," the DA's office said in a statement.

Hill was a private contractor retained by the city. He and Bouza "are accused of having a financial conflict of interest when they allegedly drafted or influenced contracts with the city," the statement said.

Phillips' attorney, former Los Angeles County District Attorney Steve Cooley, told the Pasadena Star-News that his client is innocent and "we will prove it."

Phillips is scheduled to appear for arraignment Oct. 18. The other defendants, whose preliminary hearings haven't been scheduled yet, will next appear Nov. 9.

Artesia Councilmember Ali Taj Elected League of California Cities President

Taj currently serves as Chair of the Eco-Rapid Transit Authority involved in the light rail system.

By Brian Hews

In a first for the tiny South-eastern L.A. County city of Artesia, the League of California Cities Board of Directors elected Artesia Council Member Ali Sajjad Taj to serve as its 2022-23 president. Council Member Taj was installed on Sept. 9 as part of the Cal Cities Annual Conference and Expo.

"I have benefitted both personally and professionally from my involvement in Cal Cities throughout my nine years in public service, and I'm excited to give back as president," said Taj. "I look forward to working alongside such skilled, thoughtful, and insightful local leaders as we advocate for policies that enhance our communities and the lives of our residents."

Taj has served on the Artesia City Council since 2013 and, in another milestone, was the first Pakistani-American to be appointed Mayor of Artesia; he has served twice as mayor.

In addition, Taj currently serves as Chair of the Eco-

Rapid Transit Authority, a joint powers authority created to pursue the development of a the West Santa Ana Branch light rail line that will run from Artesia to Downtown Los Angeles. Members cities include Artesia, Bell, Bell Gardens, Cerritos, Cudahy, Downey, Glendale, Huntington Park, Maywood, Paramount, South Gate, and Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport Authority.

Taj represents Artesia on numerous regional boards and committees, including as a board member and vice president for the California Contract Cities Association.

Throughout his tenure on the city council, Taj has focused his efforts on solving the day-to-day quality of life issues for Artesia residents by supporting projects that improve the city's lighting, street quality, and traffic safety while being an advocate for bringing new businesses that generate revenue for city services and provide new amenities for residents.

Groundwater Remediation Project at Civic Center

The Cerritos City Council recently authorized $1.645 million from the General Fund for groundwater remediation at the Civic Center, and awarded a $3.023 million contract to Mehta Mechanical Co., Inc. of La Palma for the groundwater remediation project.

The project includes constructing a wet well, two lift stations, several manholes, new sewer lines and structural improvements in an effort to divert groundwater extracted from the Civic Center parking structure to the sanitary sewer system. Tiles in the structure's stairwells will also be replaced and stairwell shade structures added. A canopy will be constructed to aid in the diversion of rainwater.

The project also includes the construction of a four-inch sewer pipe and flow meter at the Cerritos Center for the Performing Arts to assist in de-watering the subterranean orchestra pit by discharging collected groundwater to the existing sewer line.

The total cost of the project is eligible for funding through the City's Measure W local return.

Known as the "Safe, Clean Water Program," Measure W provides dedicated funding to increase local water supply, improve water quality and protect public health. In Cerritos, the Measure W local return is estimated at $970,000 annually and must be used toward water-quality programs and projects.

LOCAL MAN PROUD TO BE A NAVY 'SEABEE'

GULFPORT, Miss. - Since 1942, sailors assigned to the U.S. Navy's Construction Force have been building and fighting around the world. Chief Petty Officer Christian Guzman, a Paramount native is one of those sailors.

"I joined the Navy as a way to give back to my community," said Guzman. "I also joined to expand my education and to set myself up for the future."

Eighty years ago, members of Navy Construction Battalions were fittingly nicknamed, "Seabees," a play on the C and B initials. They are responsible for building military bases and airfields, supporting humanitarian efforts and conducting underwater construction projects.

Guzman currently serves with Naval Mobile Construction Battalion One at the headquarters for naval construction forces in Gulfport, Mississippi.

Serving in the Navy means Guzman is part of a team that is taking on new importance in America's focus on strengthening alliances, modernizing capabilities, increasing capacities and maintaining military readiness in support of the National Defense Strategy.

"The Navy is at the forefront of being forward deployed," said Guzman. "We have such a large presence that projects deterrence."

With more than 90 percent of all trade traveling by sea, and 95 percent of the world's international phone and internet traffic carried through fiber optic cables lying on the ocean floor, Navy officials continue to emphasize the importance of accelerating America's advantage at sea.

"Maintaining the world's best Navy is an investment in the security and prosperity of the United States, as well as the stability of our world," said Adm. Mike Gilday, Chief of Naval Operations. "The U.S. Navy—forward deployed and integrated with all elements of national power—deters conflict, strengthens our alliances and partnerships, and guarantees free and open access to the world's oceans. As the United States responds to the security environment through integrated deterrence, our Navy must continue to deploy forward and campaign with a ready, capable, combat-credible fleet."

Guzman and the sailors they serve with have many opportunities to achieve accomplishments during their military service.

As Guzman and other sailors continue to train and perform missions, they take pride in continuing an 80-year legacy and serving their country in the United States Navy.

"Serving in the Navy means being a good example," added Guzman. "I have kids, so it means being a role model to them in a sense."

James E. Casey 'Children of UPS Employees' Scholarship Winner

Dean Batres, a Norwalk native and recent graduate of Ernest McBride High School, wants to create a better world by focusing on clean energy.

"The world today faces numerous environmental crises," he said. "Alternative energy is something I've looked into and want to be a part of."

His father, Hector, is a mechanic journeyman for UPS. In a scholarship exclusive to the children of UPS employees, Batres was selected as a recipient of the UPS 2022 James E. Casey scholarship and will receive $2,500 per year for four years while attending University of California, Irvine.

He said the scholarship relieved some financial pressure, especially for his parents who are helping pay for college. Batres is majoring in electrical engineering and knows his field of study can help create a better way to power our world. His interest in the field stems from being a member of his school's Solar Cup team where they built a solar-powered boat. "Being a member of the electrical team introduced me to a new fascination for electronics," he said. "It was really enjoyable going through the process of creating circuits."

Batres said he's excited to make meaningful connections with students and faculty, and plans to use what he

DWP Discounting Wi-Fi Device That Tracks Water Usage

Staff Report

(LAT)—DWP customers can track their home water usage through a new pilot program of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

Flume is a Wi-Fi-enabled device that attaches to a customer's water meter and uses sensors to track water consumption and other data in real time through an app;

Flume can help customers create a water budget.

The program allows DWP customers living in single-family homes to purchase Flume directly through the company's website for $24, discounted from its $199 regular price tag.

"We don't need a crystal ball to see that skyrocketing temperatures and drying reservoirs are in our future, so we need to keep finding ways to help Angelenos double down on their historic efforts to conserve," Garcetti said in a news release.

"Smart leak" will warn users when unusual water use is detected; the water consumption app also features a budgeting tool that allows customers to set usage targets the DWP said.

For those users really into analyzing their usage, the device monitors and analyzes both indoor and outdoor water use and will breakdown water use by common fixtures and appliances, such as toilets, showers and washing machines.

LA MIRADA blogger Tony Aiello harassing the LM NewsSource for retweeting a HMG-CN story about the police officer who assaulted Councilman DeRuse. The officer is under an internal affairs investigation. He also used morefakenews hashtag.

La Mirada Blog writer Tony Aiello doesn't mind showing his allegiance when his friend, La Mirada City Councilman Andrew Sarega is under fire, even when there is overwhelming evidence that he should not defend Sarega.

In an extremely questionable Twitter post, Aiello commented on a retweet by the La Mirada NewsBeat concerning an article by Hews Media Group-Lamplighter outlining the assault by Sarega's brother on Councilman Steven DeRuse.

Sarega's brother is an Anaheim Police Officer, the Lamplighter confirmed days after the assault that he was under investigation by Internal Affairs.

Nevertheless, Aiello who calls himself and his blog "La Mirada's true news source," wrote a very threatening and intimidating post on La Mirada NewsBeat's twitter after retweeting Lamplighter's Sarega story.

"Nice try. I was there [at the meeting]. I must have been watching another meeting. If you don't have anything nice to contribute to #LaMirada then don't. Stop rambling and stop trying to divide the community. #morefakenews"

"How can you be a legitimate news site if you post something like that," said Lamplighter Publisher Brian Hews, "it is evidence that if Aiello is ever confronted with derogatory information about his buddy Saraga he will not report it, he totally discredited himself sticking up for Sarega."

This is not the first time for Aiello and Sarega, in 2017 the Lamplighter documented the questionable campaign financing for Aiello's failed campaign, who was running with Sarega.

The FPPC ended up investigating both of them

Why Suicide Among Youth is Raising Red Flags

Recognizing symptoms is critical to saving lives.

Although suicide is a concern among all age groups, the return to in-person learning and the role social media plays in the lives of young people are raising red flags related to their mental health that need to be addressed to prevent lives from being lost.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), suicide is the second leading cause of death for youth ages 10-14. The California Department of Health reports that in 2020, the suicide rate among youth increased by 20%.

Also, the CDC notes 19.9% of high school students reported attempting suicide during the previous 12 months, and that suicide attempts were reported most frequently among girls compared to boys (11% vs. 6.6%).

The Impact of the Pandemic

According to Dr. Ashley Zucker, a child, adolescent and adult psychiatrist with Kaiser Permanente Southern California, reintegration into school through in-person learning has been a significant challenge for many children, causing a strain on their mental health.

“Going back to the classroom resulted in children seeing in person someone who may have been bullying them,” she said. “It has also triggered separation anxiety and, or, social anxiety; increased ease-of-access to illegal substances, as well as some kids having more difficulty in keeping grades up. While remote learning was a challenge for many socially, some kids actually performed much better academically in that setting. Another trigger to anxiety or depression many children feel relates to their parents or guardians experiencing challenges in returning to work in person themselves.”

Why Many Kids Aren't Speaking Up

There can be many reasons why youth experiencing mental health challenges don't speak up, Dr. Zucker noted.

The stigma of mental illness is improving, but continues to be a barrier for children asking for help and seeking care. “Children and teens are often afraid to discuss their mental health issues with their parents or other adults around them because they're afraid of the response they may get,” Dr. Zucker explained. “They may fear embarrassment, being ignored, or even being made fun of. Some other kids may be afraid of getting in trouble or being punished by losing privileges such as access to their phones, social media or friends.”

Dr. Zucker emphasized the importance of parents or guardians observing children's behavior, and when noticing abnormalities – such as changes in eating or sleeping habits, performing poorly in school or being more withdrawn and isolating themselves – to open a discussion or seek treatment.

This is especially the case if a child mentions or seems to be enamored with the topic of suicide.

“The worst thing you can do is ignore early warning signs,” Dr. Zucker warned. “It's always better to err on the side of caution. In fact, checking in on your kids even when they appear to be doing well can set the stage for them to share when they are not feeling good.”

The Impact of Social Media

According to Dr. Zucker, social media can positively and negatively impact young people's mental health. “Social media can be a way for people to connect and to find community, but it can also lead to access to information that can be harmful,” she said. “There's a known contagion effect of suicide and social media can be one avenue where young people are seeing and hearing more about suicide.”

Dr. Zucker added that social media is also known to impact self-esteem for teens as it induces a constant comparison to others, where children may judge their self-worth by the number of “likes” they receive.

Additionally, social media has created a 24/7 source of information as well as access to one another, which can include bullying and other forms of victimization, Dr. Zucker said. That can contribute to depression, anxiety, and suicidal thoughts.

WEEK SIX FOOTBALLDefensive first half gives way to offensive showdown as Valley Christian falls in league opener

By Loren Kopff
@LorenKopff on Twitter

It was the inaugural Ironwood League opener for Valley Christian High last Friday night, and nothing would have made first-year head coach Nick Walker happier than to beat Heritage Christian High. One week before his Apr. 10 hiring at V.C., Walker was about to take the defensive coordinator's position at Heritage Christian.

After both defenses stole the show in the first half, which ended with the Warriors only up 6-0, the teams combined for six touchdowns in the second half with Heritage Christian getting the game winner with 1:24 seconds remaining in the game when D.J. Cole scored on a two-yard run, giving his team a 29-21 victory.

"There were a lot of emotions in it from a coaching perspective, just knowing that those were going to be my guys and I'm here and I'm with my real guys," said Walker. "I wanted to beat them."

V.C. was trailing 21-7 entering the fourth quarter before sophomore running back JoJo Apisala scored from 19 yards out on the fourth play of the final quarter. The Defenders defense then forced their former Olympic League rivals to punt and starting at their own 27-yard line, the hosts marched 73 yards to get the tying score, a seven-yard run from Apisala with 2:33 remaining in the game.

"It shows that we're on the right track," said Walker. "We're young, we're young. When we start three or four freshmen, it's going to be like that. As far as us being resilient, that's what we preach. Keep fighting all four quarters. If we fight all four quarters, we're going to be okay."

Walker added that his team has to start fast because the Defenders are not a come from behind team as five of their six opponents have scored the first points this season. Only the Sept. 16 game at Artesia High featured a scoreless opening quarter.

The Defenders (2-4, 0-1) thought they had scored the first points of the game when senior Casey Bouma skirted for a 55-yard touchdown on the fourth play of their opening drive. However, a holding penalty negated that play and junior quarterback Joe DeYoung would be intercepted by Joseph Chavez on the very next play. The turnover led to a 13-yard touchdown reception from Anthony Pineda.

The next two drives of the half by Heritage Christian would end on downs and a missed field goal while V.C. would have first half drives end on two punts and three plays in the final 31 seconds. Through the first 24 minutes, V.C. had the ball for 9:13, ran 22 plays and gained 54 yards while the Warriors put together 36 plays for 165 yards.

"Coming into halftime, we just adjusted a few things," said Walker. "Obviously, we had some line issues, so we had to fix that. That was number one going into the half. Then we adjusted that and we adjusted on defense and kind of settled down on the blitz and just kind of put ourselves in a better position to be successful."

V.C. got the ball to begin the second half and after DeYoung connected with Bouma on the first two plays for 40 yards, Apisala and Bouma combined to rush for 37 yards on seven of the next plays and when Brown scored on an eight-yard run with 6:25 left in the third quarter, it was a different game. But two plays later, Cole's 29-yard run, plus a two-point conversion from Dre Bolte put the Warriors up 14-7. Then after another interception on the second play of the ensuing drive, Cole got past the Defenders defense for a 30-yard run and a 21-7. The combined three touchdowns came in a span of 2:17.

While V.C.'s offense struggled in the first half, it was the opposite in the second half as it had the ball for nearly four more minutes and put together 214 yards. The defense also limited the Warriors to 15 plays and 133 yards.

DeYoung rebounded from a slow start and finished the contest with 15 completions in 29 attempts for 218

VALLEY CHRISTIAN HIGH senior Jaidon Carter returns a kickoff late in the third quarter as he tries to get past Rshas Shamburger (#4) and Austin Evans of Heritage Christian High in last Friday night's Ironwood League opener. V.C. fell to the Warriors 29-21 and dropped to 2-4 on the season.

yards. Eight of those completions went to Bouma for 53 yards while senior wide receiver Micah Maurer caught four passes for 129 yards. At the beginning of the season, Walker had been rotating senior Kaden Struiksmma and sophomore Keiran Edmundson at quarterback, but lately, DeYoung has been getting more snaps from under center.

"Joe gives us the best shot to succeed," said Walker. "We're trying to help our guys and put our guys in the correct positions. Obviously, we don't want to hurt anybody's feelings or whatnot, but we try to do it to the best of our ability."

On the ground, Apisala picked up 54 yards on eight carries and defensively, he led the Defenders with six and a half tackles while Bouma and sophomore linebacker Kingston Mutu each had five and a half tackles.

Next up for V.C. is its homecoming game against its longest rival, Ontario Christian High. Up until 2000, the two had been Olympic League rivals but since then, they had simply played in non-league games. But now, the stakes are much higher, and the Defenders will be tested even more, now that the other five league teams have a combined record of 23-7. The Knights slammed Big Bear High 55-6 last Thursday to remain unbeaten in six games and are an extremely high-scoring team. Ontario Christian's lowest scoring game was a 35-7 win against St. Margaret's High in the season opener and is averaging 43.3 points a game while allowing just 56 points so far.

Entering the game against Big Bear, the Knights had rushed for over 1,600 yards with half a dozen players having gained at least 100 yards. Since 1998, V.C. owns a 13-9 record over Ontario Christian and the teams met on V.C.'s homecoming game in 2009, a 35-24 victory for the home team.

"Oh man, that's probably the biggest matchup of the season," said Walker. "We're going to come out and we're going to come out hungry. These guys are hungry, and when you're hungry, it changes the whole dynamic of the game. By them being hungry, we're going to take advantage of that energy."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS VOLLEYBALL WINDING DOWN WITH SEVERAL AREA TEAMS IN GREAT PLAYOFF POSITION

By Loren Kopff
@LorenKopff on Twitter

The CIF-Southern Section fall season began on Aug. 13 with girls volleyball being the first sport to have its events played, and just like that, Oct. 14 will be the last day of league action with the divisional playoffs beginning on Oct. 17. While two area teams are on track to win their respective leagues, as many as four others are in a prime position to grab one of their respective league's automatic berths.

In the 605 League, Cerritos High began the week at 14-7 overall, 7-0 in league and needs two wins to claim the program's fourth straight league crown. The Dons visited John Glenn High this past Tuesday and will host Whitney High today and second place Oxford Academy on Tuesday.

The battle for third place could come down to the final regular season match when Artesia High welcomes Glenn. Entering this week, Artesia was 5-10 overall, 3-4 in league while Glenn was sitting at 7-8, 3-4. Artesia will host Oxford Academy today while the Eagles entertain Pioneer High today.

In the Mid-Cities League, first place La Mirada High hosted third place Norwalk High this past Monday and swept the Lancers to improve to 13-9 overall and 6-0 in league. The Matadores had home matches with Lynwood High (Oct. 4) and Firebaugh High (Oct. 6) before ending the regular season at Bellflower High on Tuesday and home against Dominguez High on Thursday. Norwalk, which dropped to 7-11, 3-3, hosted Firebaugh and Dominguez this week and will visit Lynwood and Bellflower on Tuesday and Thursday, respectively.

Valley Christian High began the week at 17-10 overall and 3-1 in the Olympic League, good for second place. The league title was on the line on Oct. 6 when the Defenders hosted first place Village Christian High and Valley Christian will visit Whittier Christian High on Monday before hosting Heritage Christian High on Wednesday.

FOOTBALL
Westminster High (6-0) @ Artesia (0-5-1)-The Pioneers ended a two-game scoreless skid but still hasn't picked up a win after an 18-14 loss to Viewpoint High last Friday. In six games, Artesia has scored 41 points and the 18 allowed last Friday was a season low. The Pioneers will conclude their non-league part of the schedule against a Lions team that is both offensive and defensive-minded.

Westminster, coming off a 13-9 win over Katella High last Friday, has scored 227 points while allowing 19 points. The team had a stretch of four straight shutouts before last Friday. Quarterback Alex Solano (48 completions, 911 yards, 14 touchdowns), running back William Pardue (37 carries, 377 yards) and wide receiver Jason Pham (24 receptions, 476 yards, 10 touchdowns) are the offensive leaders.

Prediction:
Westminster 42, Artesia 6.

Gahr High (0-6) @ Cerritos (1-5)-This ABC Unified School District game, which was on Oct. 6, has not been played since Sept. 8, 2017, probably because Gahr was on a 13-game winning streak, outscoring the Dons 561-56 with seven shutouts. But times have changed, and Cerritos has a much better program these days. The Dons are coming off a 34-14 loss to Chino High last Friday and have yet to score

MID-CITIES LEAGUE GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

LA MIRADA BATTLES THROUGH UNEXPECTED INJURY, SWEEPS NORWALK AS RARE LEAGUE TITLE IS IN SIGHTS

By Loren Kopff
@LorenKopff on Twitter

Just when the La Mirada High and Norwalk High girls volleyball teams were preparing for what many thought would be a first place battle in the Mid-Cities League last Thursday, Bellflower High put a wrinkle into things. A five-set win over Norwalk on Sept. 27 left the Lancers in third place with a 3-2 league mark after the first round, looking up at La Mirada (5-0) and Bellflower (4-1).

Then, midway through the first set last Thursday, La Mirada senior middle blocker Mele-Ana Sitani inadvertently stepped on the foot of sophomore setter Kiersten Mahan and immediately went to the court where she laid face down for several minutes.

Sitani had badly injured her lower left leg and had to be taken away on a stretcher with her team trailing 15-11. The gymnasium was cleared of all players and those in attendance, obviously shook up at the accident, and about 40 minutes later, La Mirada head coach Kimberly Mahan and Norwalk head coach Paola Nava agreed to suspend the match until this past Monday. It was then that the host Matadores moved closer to the program's first league title since 2014 with a 25-14, 25-18 25-15 victory, leaving the team with a 13-9 overall mark and 6-0 in the circuit. Norwalk dropped to 7-11, 3-3 and will have to hope Bellflower loses at least two more league matches to claim second place.

"I don't want to count my chickens before they're hatched, but I'm trying to be patient," said Mahan on closing in on a league title. "But yes, now I'm excited. This is a good group of girls and after the Covid year coming back, it took awhile to regroup. But I have a lot of seniors and I think we're doing very well working as a team."

But the thoughts of Sitani were still on the minds of the players when the match resumed. According to Mahan, Sitani was taken to PIH Health Whittier Hospital last Thursday and transferred to Children's Hospital of Orange County that night. She had surgery last Friday and was released from CHOC last Saturday.

"I think they were anxious and a little nervous because of what happened on Thursday," said Mahan. "We wanted to continue our season. We were 5-0 [in league], so we wanted to come out here and get the win."

Before the stoppage in play, there were seven ties and five lead changes with Norwalk scoring the last four points. La Mirada had squandered leads of 3-0, 4-2, 7-5 and 10-9. When play resumed, Mahan subbed in senior outside hitter Brooke Hayne for Sitani and immediately had a kill. That set the stage for senior setter Mikayla Gonzalez to serve five straight points. Then after kills from Norwalk sophomore middle blocker Samantha Munoz and junior outside hitter Marisol Roseboro, a kill from senior opposite hitter Abbie Van Nyernen led to senior outside hitter Bailey Mahan reeling off the final six points of the set.

"The girls all said they wanted to do this for Mele-Ana today, and so we were going to come out strong and do this for her and that's what they did," said Kimberley Mahan. "I think it's been a really long season for our girls, and I think there are only a handful of my players that are eager and want to play and are passionate about the game," said Nava. "I have a few girls that are young, and they don't know how to want it yet. They don't know how to thrive off energy and thrive off a nice swing or a good dig. We were just flat the entire game. "Even when we got a kill or an ace or we scored a point, there was no emotion and it's frustrating as a coach to see that your girls don't get excited," she continued. "But it is what it is and unfortunately, I can't teach them effort. I can't give them that energy that they need."

Norwalk tried to rebound in the second set but the height of La Mirada's six-foot sophomore middle blocker Natalie Ojeisekhoba and 5'10" senior middle blocker Milan Nimeh proved to be too much for an uninspired Lancers defense. In the set, the two combined for nine of the teams' 16 kills and they were either tips at the net or slams down the middle of the court. While the Lancers never led in the set, it managed to stay within striking range until successive kills from Hayne, Nimeh and Bailey Mahan made the score 22-17. Nimeh then ended the set with back to back kills.

"With Natalie, our sophomore, we've been working with her a lot, and my other setter, the sophomore, just working on running the one's and three's a lot more instead of not so much the outside hitters," said Kimberly Mahan. "But they did a great job."

"[My girls] think that they need to be perfect but it's not about being perfect, it's about being smart," said Nava. "What La Mirada has is they're smart with their balls. If they get blocked, they're tipping the next ball. But our girls just want to swing away and we're not smart with that ball."

La Mirada jumped to a 5-1 lead in the third set and coasted to the easy win as the closest the Lancers would get was two points early on but were within two to four points throughout the first rotation. Sophomore setter Kiersten Mahan served the final five points of the match, three of them on aces.

Nimeh led all players with a dozen kills while Ojeisekhoba added seven kills followed by Meraz and Bailey Mahan with six and five kills respectively. La Mirada hosted Lynwood High this past Tuesday and Firebaugh High on Oct. 6 and will end the regular season at Bellflower on Tuesday and home against Dominguez High on Thursday.

Norwalk was paced by Roseboro (seven kills) and freshman defensive specialist Nicole Reyes (four kills) as it hosted Firebaugh this past Tuesday and Dominguez on Oct. 6 before visiting Lynwood and Bellflower on Tuesday and Thursday respectively.

"These girls have four games left [and] I think they still need to continue to practice hard and work hard because third place can fall out of our hands just like that," said Nava. "If we lose to Firebaugh, that's another loss on us. Firebaugh did take a set on us [on Sept. 15]. So, tomorrow is a very important game. We do have to win that game to stay in the running for CIF. Again, it puts the pressure on these girls and they don't know how to deal with pressure very well. But I believe in them and I have faith in them. But it's all about if they have faith in themselves."

NEWS from page 8

more than 21 points in any game. This will be the final non-league contest for the Dons.

It's a tad bit worse for Gahr, which was doubled up by Bellflower High 40-20 last Friday in the Mid-Cities League opener. It was a season high in points scored, but the Gladiators have been outscored 183-55 this season, including three games of yielding at least 40 points.

Prediction:
Cerritos 35, Gahr 14.

John Glenn (2-3) @ Garden Grove High (5-1)-Glenn has had two weeks off since a 59-6 loss to Norwalk High on Sept. 16. After scoring 49 points against Firebaugh High on Aug. 26, the Eagles have scored 25 points in their last three contests and have been outscored 104-0 in the first three quarters in the last two games.

It could be more of the same against the Argonauts, who have already defeated Artesia 61-6 and Gahr 21-0 earlier in the season. Quarterback Branden Roth has completed 65 percent of his passes and has thrown for 627 yards and 10 touchdowns. Running back Malachi Bey continues to be stellar on the ground, gaining 799 yards and scoring 10 touchdowns.

Prediction:
Garden Grove 42, Glenn 6.

La Mirada (3-3, 1-0 in the Gateway League) @ Mayfair High (3-3, 0-1)-La Mirada picked up a huge 43-21 win at Dominguez last Thursday in the inaugural Gateway League open and after a three-game slide, the Matadores have won their past two games. In the win over Dominguez, senior running back C.J. Zackery scored on runs of five, three and 32 yards while senior quarterback Nehuel Garcia threw touchdown passes of 31 yards to senior Trevor Cook and two yards to freshman Gavin Lannon.

When the Matadores were in the Suburban League, their biggest rival was Mayfair, which has won five straight in the series. Before that, La Mirada won seven of the previous eight meetings. The Monsoons were trounced by Warren High 54-7 last Friday, ending a two-game winning streak and in their three losses, they have scored 34 points. Mayfair is more of passing team than a rushing team and is led by quarterback Evan Tomich, who has thrown for over 800 yards.

Prediction:
La Mirada 35, Mayfair 31.

Lynwood (6-1, 1-0 in the Mid-Cities League) @ Norwalk (6-0, 0-0)-The Lancers were off last Friday following their high-scoring 44-30 win over El Rancho High. This is Norwalk's Mid-Cities League opener, and it comes against a surprise Lynwood program that had historically been in the bottom half of the old San Gabriel Valley League. It is also Norwalk's homecoming game, and no Norwalk team has faced Lynwood in at least over 25 years.

The Knights are coming off a 40-0 win against Firebaugh last Friday for their second shutout of the season. However, two of the six wins have been by forfeit and the six victories are the most by any Lynwood team since 2014. One more win by Lynwood would give the program its best mark since 2008.

Prediction:
Norwalk 42, Lynwood 14.

Ontario Christian High (6-0, 1-0 in the Ironwood League) @ Valley Christian (2-4, 0-1)-See Heritage Christian/Valley Christian game story.

Prediction: Ontario Christian 49, Valley Christian 13.

What is Prop 27?

Prop 27 looks to legalize online sports betting and is backed by private industry giants like FanDuel and DraftKings. Sports betting apps would allow Californians to place wagers from anywhere within state lines.

Up until recently, the majority of the advertising money spent by Prop 27 backers has been focused on how the initiative would help solve the homelessness crisis in California.

Under Prop 27, 85% of the tax revenue created from mobile sportsbooks would go toward the California Solutions to Homelessness and Mental Health Support Account program. Non-participating tribes would receive the remaining 15%. This would also be as a result of a 10% tax on sportsbook operators profit. There would also be a one-time $100 million application fee and a $10 million renewal fee paid every five years.

A recent poll has shown that Prop 27 is fighting an uphill battle, however, and California residents won't be seeing ads in favor of the mobile ballot initiative on their televisions going forward. Instead, voters can expect to find direct mail pieces as well as digital ads.

Will Sports Betting Be Legalized in California in 2022?

The poll mentioned above had been conducted by the Public Policy Institute of California which asked over 1,000 people identified as "likely voters" specifically about Prop 27. Here are some of the key findings:

- 34% of respondents planned to vote yes on Prop 27 while 54% were against the ballot initiative.

- Only 29% claimed the outcome of Prop 27 to be 'very important.'

- Looking at it from party affiliation, the most support came from Independents at 40%, followed by Democrats at 34% and Republicans at 29%.

- 52% of voters aged 18-44 said they planned to vote yes on Prop 27.

Speaking of political parties, the California Republican Party has voted to oppose both sports betting ballot initiatives. The California Democrat Party has remained neutral on Prop 26 and opposed to Prop 27.

For those who wanted the convenience of mobile sports betting but would be willing to settle for making the trip to visit a retail sportsbook, those chances are somehow more grim. Earlier research on Prop 26 found that there was even less support for the tribal-led initiative. How can that be? The majority of money spent by those backing Prop 26 went towards anti-Prop 27 ads.

California voters weren't even sure what Prop 26 was trying to accomplish because it seems tribes were more focused on ensuring Prop 27 failed versus garnering support for Prop 26.

In addition to California's tribes missing out on a wealth of sports betting revenue, there is fear that the passing of Prop 27 would eventually lead to mobile casino games being legalized as well. Doing so would be a massive blow to the amount of money tribal communities bring in.

Unless we see a dramatic shift in favor of Prop 27, it seems as though California sports fans will have to hope some sort of compromise can be made between the two opposing groups and different legislation put forward. Sportsbook operators wouldn't be the only ones missing out if California continues without legalized sports betting.

Eilers & Krejcik Gaming recently released a report estimating the potential for California to see $3.1 billion in sports betting revenue if the state offered both retail and mobile sports betting. While the opposing initiatives allocated tax revenue differently, that's still money missing to go toward programs to assist California residents one way or another.
